

Willie Sutton, The Notorious Robber, Was Asked Why He Robbed Banks. His Reported Response: That Is Where the Money Is

Why do some entrepreneurs make education their business? Simple, that's where the money is. Government spending on public education amounts to 12 to 13 percent of all government spending. That's where the money is!

Public officials have established policies that drain funds from public schools into the private pockets of those who operate largely unaccountable, unregulated and non-transparent schools.
