

Distractions Divert Attention from the Real Issue in Public Education—Which is the Sinister Drive to Privatize Public Education

Public school leaders, other personnel in school districts, parents, and other community members are being confronted by a plethora of distractions. These distractions, many of which are orchestrated by wily public school privatizers, are designed to keep public school leaders and other personnel and advocates too busy to deal with the real issue—the privatization of public education.

Public school support organizations likewise are busy combatting distractions and gloss-over the real issue—the privatization of public education.

It's time to deal with the real issue.