

School Privatization Terrorists Savage the Ohio Constitution to Advance Their Privatization Agenda

The battle cry of the privatizers is “fund the students,” not the “system.” The “system” promotes the public good—“fund the students” promotes social unrest, which leads to anarchy. They don’t embrace a system of government by the whole population (typically through elected representatives). They reject the idea that schools should be governed by elected boards of education. They embrace school governance by private individuals not accountable to the public.
