

Auditor of State (AOS) should follow every public tax dollar wherever it goes.

A former AOS said something to the effect he would follow every tax dollar wherever it went. That is a great strategy for the AOS.

Private schools receive hundreds of millions of dollars in direct payments for auxiliary services and non-public administrative cost reimbursements. Additionally, private schools receive hundreds of millions of more dollars in voucher payments.

It's time for the AOS to follow every public tax dollar and hold private schools accountable for how they spend those public dollars.
