

Ohio Senator Andrew Brenner in response to concerns expressed about wealthy people getting private school vouchers: “Yes. People who pay high property taxes are finally getting money to pay for their children’s education. Good for them.”

Senator Brenner seems to be revealing the rationale for universal vouchers—give tax money back to wealthy folks who pay high property taxes. So, those that pay taxes should get a rebate just because they pay taxes.