

August 15 Letter to the Editor in the Columbus Dispatch: Has your district joined Vouchers Hurt Ohio lawsuit?

Susan Miller's LTE suggests school districts not now involved in the Vouchers Hurt Ohio (VHO) constitutional challenge of the EdChoice voucher program should do so.

The general public is becoming aware of the magnitude of tax money being appropriated directly to private school coffers and that the EdChoice voucher scheme is unconstitutional.

Has your district joined Vouchers Hurt Ohio lawsuit?

My heart goes out to the families who are affected by the Columbus City Schools consolidation.

I believe CCS Board is doing their best to manage with the funds they have. It should be lost on no one that the state of Ohio has moved nearly $1 billion from the public school fund to help wealthy people pay for private/church schools.

When CCS is providing transportation to over 8,000 students to attend private schools (August 7, Columbus Dispatch), something is terribly amiss.

The answer is not to take away more funding but to fairly fund all districts. Columbus Schools has joined the Vouchers Hurt Ohio lawsuit. Has your district?
