

State Report Cards have been issued recently in Ohio. But what do they measure?

Alfie Kohn has a response: “Don’t let anyone tell you that standardized tests are not accurate measures. The truth of the matter is they offer a remarkably precise method for gauging the size of the houses near the school where the test was administered.”