

A parent's tax money belongs to the parent, say voucher zealots.

The idea that after paying taxes, the tax money belongs to the taxpayer is a breakthrough concept. So, I pay a contractor for building a structure, but the payment made still belongs to me. Wow!

An Ohio legislator addressing the concern about ultra-wealthy folks receiving vouchers said: "It's about time wealthy folks get some of their tax money back." If parents are eligible to get their tax money back, some parents would get 10 or possibly 100 times the funds as others. This is an enlightened idea!
