

Remember when school vouchers were sold as an opportunity for poor kids in high poverty school districts to attend private schools?

The rich education privatizers control the private school voucher agenda by providing campaign funds to elect their toadies to do their voucher bidding. These privatizers initiated the school voucher movement by appealing to the sensitivity of folks toward poor children. The privatizers said they wanted poor kids in high poverty school districts to have the same opportunities as tuition-paying students.

Fast forward to the current private school voucher state of affairs. An overwhelming majority of voucher users never attended a public school district. What is the goal of the voucher movement? Simply to eliminate public education.

Every citizen who appreciates democratic values and principles should be supporting the effort to have the EdChoice voucher scheme declared unconstitutional.
