

The Ohio EdChoice voucher scheme is a money thing, not an education thing.

Students that transfer to private schools via EdChoice vouchers do not improve their education outcomes. When student demographics are taken into consideration, there is absolutely no private school advantage. Public schools outperform most private schools.

Public tax support for private schools and the voucher scheme is for the benefit of private schools and the parents who have been paying tuition for private education.

Since most of the EdChoice voucher money is now going to the more affluent families, the Ohio voucher scheme is a welfare for the rich scheme.
