

Public tax dollars are paying for all, or nearly all, the student tuition for some private schools.

A statement on a private school promotional flyer: "Affordable and accessible--low cost with most families only paying $500 per student due to EdChoice scholarships."

Let this sink in.

My tax funds are flowing to a religious group that I, as a religious person, do not personally espouse. My religious views differ substantially from those espoused by this particular school's sponsor.

The Ohio Constitution protects me from being forced to pay for the religious doctrines I do not embrace.
